

Dr. Anderson achieved academic success early. He made the dean's list every semester as an undergraduate student majoring in biology at the University of Virginia in Charlottesville and earned a full tuition merit scholarship to attend the University of Tennessee College of Medicine in Memphis. He graduated in 1999 with highest honors.

After serving an internship in the Methodist Hospital System in Memphis, he moved to Atlanta's Emory University School of Medicine in 2002 and was chief resident of the Ophthalmology Department. In 2003 he held a fellowship in vitreoretinal disease and surgery at Wills Eye Hospital in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania.

Dr. Anderson won the Merrill Reech Pathology Award from the American Society of Oculoplastic and Reconstructive Surgery in 2004.

He joined Southeastern Retina Associates' Knoxville Office in 2005. His energy and expertise is apparent to both patients and colleagues.

A native of Knoxville, Dr. Anderson graduated from Bearden High School. His wife, Britt Anderson, is a Knoxville dermatologist and dermatopathologist.
